Upland, colleges to appeal decision on impact report

By DON GREEN

Upland and The Claremont Colleges plan to appeal a county administrative decision last week not to require an environmental impact report for the plan guiding land use around Cable Airport.

Chet Davisson - officer for the San Bernardino County Environmenal Review Board gave the 20-year plan a "negative declaration," ruling it would not have significant adverse effects on the environment.

He could not be reached for comment, but others attending the session said Davisson noted the advisory nature of the plan in reaching his decision.

A four-fifths vote by a city council can overrule a decision of the West Valley Airport Land Use Commission, which has review over projects near the airport.

Paul Curtis, Claremont's associate director of community development, said Davisson noted Cable Airport's operations would grow regardless of the plan and the environmental review with the plan would be misdirected.

Curtis said he disagreed, adding that the Claremont City Council may decide tonight whether to appeal the decision along with Upland and the colleges. Montclair is also studying the issue.

Upland Planning Director Bill Young said he is drafting the city's appeal so the ruling could be considered by the county's full environmental review board. The filing deadline is Sept. 5.

Young said he hoped an environmental report on the land-use plan could be consolidated with an environmental review of the airport's master plan addressing facilities and operations of the airport to the year 2000.

Some 325 aircraft were based at the airport in 1977, with an estimated 140,000 annual operations. According to the land-use study, those figures are expected to reach 460 aircraft and 209,000 annual operations in 1990, when Cable Airport is forecast to reach its saturation point. In the plan, Paul Cable, general manager of the airport, has agreed runway to 3,600 feet by relocating The plan sets two boundaries one for building height restrictions and another, smaller area for noise and airport safety - for review of to limit the effective length of the new development. A series of "accident potential zones" extending from the ends of the runway is also outlined. These zones "would severely restrict permitted use" of land within their boundaries, according to language recommended by plan's steering

Charles E. Gross, the colleges' vice president, noted property owned by The Claremont Colleges is not affected by these proposed zones and that the plan as drafted leaves the colleges the same options as now for the use of their land.

The colleges still would have concerns over physical growth of the airport as opposed to growth in

Co-pilot Ken Davis said he expected "oom pah pahs."
But the return of Upland's Mercy

Airlift crew from Nicaragua Monday was nearly as quiet as their departure three weeks ago. We didn't tell anyone we were going because we feared reprisal fighting was still going on," explained Joe A. Rogers, president of Mercy Airlift, an arm of World Gospel Crusade, also based in Mercy Airlift's DC-3 touched down at Ontario International Airport at 4:10 p.m., ending the evangelical society's 22-day rescue mission in war-ravaged Nicaragua.

The four-man crew left Ontario Aug. 2 and logged 14,841 miles, 8,330 in the jungles of eastern Nicaragua. They delivered 5,600 pounds of food and medicine and airlifted 347 refugees to Managua.

Rogers estimated half a million people were left without food or medicine as fighting subsided Nicaragua President General Anastasio Somoza resigned last month, leaving the country in the hands of the Sandinista rebels and a five-man governing body, the junta.

'The tone of the country is confusion," said Rogers, 48, of Claremont. "The people are on a kind of honeymoon after 43 years of dictatorship. But they're working on loose ends. You might say the country is up for grabs.

Mercy Airlift was asked to come to Nicaragua by Cepad, a Christian rescue organization in Managua. The International Red Cross also joined the rescue mission.

But Mercy's DC-3 was the only plane small enough to ferry supplies to the isolated east coast, Rogers said. Fleeing National Guardsmen took all the military planes and the only airplane belonging to the Sandinistas was a DC-3 that wouldn't fly

The crew often made two flights a day to Puerta Cabasa and Blue Fields, two eastern villages. The milk, food and medicines they brought from Ontario were the first supplies the villagers had received in two months.

"The hospital in Puerta Cabasa had run out of anesthesia, glucose and antibiotics," said Rogers. "We picked the medicines up in Blue Fields and flew them to Puerta Cabasa.'

Restaurants and supermarkets in outlying areas were closed and no food was available, the crew members said. They said they often heard gunfire at night in Managua.

At Cepad's request, Mercy Airlift brought Julio Castillo of Managua and his 17-year-old son, Osman Castillo Cabezas, back to the United States with them.

Rogers said Castillo, 55, was suspected of working for the Somoza regime, although he did not. Castillo has accepted a job as a deacon at a San Francisco Baptist church and his son will attend English classes in Toledo, Ohio.

In addition to Rogers and Davis, Mercy Airlift crew members included Bill Birch, chief pilot; Keith Persson, flight mechanic; and Art George, director of evangelism. Rogers' and Birch's wives met them in Mexico, where they spent the weekend before to returning to Ontario.

Mercy Airlift delivered 6,800 Christian tracts and 4,500 Gospel of John booklets to Nicaraguan Rogers has a photograph of a Sandinista soldier clutching a rifle and a grenade, a tract stuffed in his fatigue shirt.

The crew members marveled at the youthfulness of the Sandinista soldiers. Many - both boys and girls - were as young as 9 or 10, they Rogers said the youthful warriors were "open, friendly and warm." But they were inexperienced with guns. The crew members were eating in a Managua restaurant when a soldier's carelessly propped machine gun clattered to the floor.

Fund arranged for crash victim

A trust fund has been set up for Prima Rico of Upland, a survivor of a traffic accident last month that killed four Upland residents and two other persons.

Rico, 17, was recently released from San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland and is home recuperating under a nurse's care.

A group of Upland residents was returning home after attending a wedding in New Mexico when their pickup-camper and a truck collided on Interstate

A federally mandated change in the ground rules for tenant selection at a low-income housing project in Upland has upset senior citizens hoping to move into the complex late this year.

Those seniors - who believed they ranked high on a waiting list by showing early interest in the project will take their chances with hundreds of other applicants in a lottery planned sometime in September for spots at the 100-unit Sycamore Terrace.

Southern California Presbyterian Homes, the Glendale-based sponsor of the project, informed applicants earlier this month that the organization's plans to rent the subsidized housing on a first-come, first-serve basis failed to meet federal guidelines. The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is financing construction of the facilities through a $3.86 million

Seniors aged 62 or older and handicapped persons meeting lowincome requirements will pay 25 percent of their monthly income for the one-bedroom apartments on the north side of San Bernardino Road east of Memorial Park and west of Grove Avenue.

Demand for apartments in similar projects - aimed at helping the elderly and handicapped remain independent - has been heavy.

Charles Sutton, vice president of home administration for Presbyterian Homes, said a letter in April from HUD's Los Angeles office left the non-profit group with no choice but to change the method of tenant selection.

The lottery is the fairest and most convenient of the accepted alternatives for renting the apartments, he added.

'There's no doubt we have had a lot of people upset. A lot of people felt it was unfair.

Referring to persons showing interest in the project as long as two years ago, he added, "This is where complaints are coming from."

"Some people are literally desperate for housing. Sutton said the delay between the April HHUD letter and the organization's notice this month to applicants was caused by attempts at clarifying the rules, meetings with officials of Upland First Presbyterian Church and concentration of efforts to resolve similar circumstances at its Glendale project.

In Glendale, Presbyterian Homes received 3,000 initial inquiries for 167 units. Tenants were eventually selected from some 1,500 applicants. Sycamore Terrace has had at least 500 inquiries.

A woman who first expressed interest in the Upland project in 1977 described herself as "heart-broken" over the change in the selection process, likening it to "the rules being changed in the last inning."

Told she had a high position on the waiting list and counting on living at Sycamore Terrace, she said she has passed up three other apartments.

Thomas Honore is a HUD program manager over projects in Imperial and San Diego counties. Earlier this year he was director of fair housing and equal opportunity for HUD's Los Angeles regional

Referring to the April letter that bore his name, Honore said, "It's not a new rule - it's a clarification of a very old rule."

Projects such as Sycamore Terrace receiving federal assistance are required to follow an affirmative marketing plan approved by HUD, he said.

Honore described the plan as "basically an outreach thing" aimed at reaching those eligible for the project but least likely to know about it, including minorities.

Steps such as advertisements in general-circulation and minority newspapers have as their goal giving everyone an equal chance, he said, adding that with "ordinary steps affirmative action would be nullified.'

The HUD letter did not single out Sycamore Terrace, and Honore said he had noticed a "pattern" developing in non-profit projects seeking applications at the time of groundbreaking ceremonies without approved affirmative marketing

"We're not saying it's not a benign thing, but it's misguided.'

The affirmative marketing plan stems from provisions under Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968. The HUD letter acknowledges enforcement of the guidelines will disrupt past promises and create problems, but states: 'It must be made clear, however, use of federal funds to assist a project ... places a responsibility to advertise and seek out applicants in such a way to ensure that the potential clientele or tenant population will not be limited to those who had some prior association with the project or some early information about it.'

Sutton noted in his letter to applicants that failure to meet the requirements "results in a federal offense. We are mandated to comply."

Those who have sent previous applications need not send in new ones after the Sycamore Terrace advertisement appears soon in local newspapers. Their names will enter the lottery along with new applicants.

"Right or wrong, that's the way it must be," Sutton said.

Referring to the demand for projects like Sycamore Terrace, he added, "Given unlimited funds, we couldn't build them fast enough.

Scramble dates listed at Upland High School

Sept. 5 and 6 will be scramble dates at Upland High School. At this time preregistered students will select their courses for the fall semester which begins Sept. 10. Any student who did not preregister at school last spring should contact his counselor immediately.

Parent-Teacher-Student Association (PTSA) members and other interested parents will help students during scramble. If any other parents are interested in helping the students during scramble, please call Dorothy Arnitz, PTSA parent coordinator,

All freshman students have been individually registered and their schedules will arrive at their homes the first week of September.

Transfer and re-entry students should contact the guidance office at Upland High School (981-5861) as soon as possible.

Zoom: controversial high-energy pill

By STEVE STANDERFER Staff Writer

983 A natural high somewhere between caffeine and ¹Cocaine is the rumored effect of a new product on the market in limited areas of the United States

Vir Zoom, which supposedly supplies energy and mental alertness to the user, is distributed through health food instores. But, its arrival in the United States is bringing with it misconceptions and controversy.

Health food stores in the West End are divided on the Question of whether to carry the bottles of large, brown tablets in their stores

Some store operators are violently opposed to the product while others are offering it or hoping to offer it, with a curious eve focused on the results

One thing is certain, anyone able to get Zoom has no trouble in selling it. Demand has outstripped supply and the company reports backlogged orders Zoom is made from guarana, a plant that can be found in the Amazon jungle in Brazil. Professor Robert Thorne, curator of the Rancho Santa Ana Botanical Gardens in Claremont, says guarana is a member of the soap berry family. Amazon Valley natives grind the seeds from the plant to make a powder which is mixed and used as a

Thorne describes it as "one of the most stimulating of "all the caffeine beverages" with a teaspoonful in water equal to two to three cups of strong coffee. Guarana is considered a beverage plant, not a narcotic, Thorne said.

Marc Bernstein, president of Amazon Trading Co. which imports, packages and distributes the guarana, said caffeine is not the only active ingredient, but it's a combination of the ingredients and the way the body similates them that give guarana its unique qualities. Speaking from his Beverly Hills office, Bernstein said guarana is not new. It has been used for many years in its powdered form in France and Brazil.

A natural stimulant which reduces hunger and fatigue and helps mental alertness, Zoom has been on the market since June. Bernstein said. Zoom comes in bottles of 90 tablets with a suggested retail price of $10. In just four days, the company sold 4,800 bottles of the exotic substance in its distribution areas of Canada, California, Colorado, Florida and Detroit and New York City.

When told of a rumor that Zoom contained cocaine. Bernstein laughed, saying such a report is a lie.

He cited an analysis of the bulk powder done by the Brazilian Secretary of Agriculture which shows it contains 53.56 percent starch, 15.56 percent raw protein, 11.20 percent tanin, 3.55 percent caffeine and other levels of humidity, ash, potassium and phosphate.

Asked why people would want to take Zoom, Bernstein remarked that "I think that they will be receiving an energy boost from the product and I think that's what they want. I believe it fits well into the strenuous and high-paced society that we are in.

Bernstein said Zoom has helped him with his tennis game. Within 30 to 45 minutes after taking the tablets on an empty stomach he begins to feel the effects. Taking four tablets at 9 a.m. keep the entrepreneur "zooming"

Of five West End health food stores contacted, two said they would not carry the product and another had discontinued its sale until more specific information on the product is made available and some of the rumors are settled. Of the other two, one carries it and the other has ordered it but doesn't expect to get any for four

The only thing the health food stores agree on is that demand for the product is high

Mary Portillo, owner of Mary's Health Foods in Rancho Cucamonga, is the only store in the area which now stocks the product. She sold two cases (24 bottles) of Zoom in two days earlier this month and her supply had dwindled to three bottles by the middle of this week.

Those who go to Mary's to buy the product are described by the owner as the "fast group" who will try anything. The ages of those buying the product range from 25 to 45. she said.

Since guarana contains caffeine, about 1.67 percent of each tablet, some stores shy away from it since caffeine is not considered healthy.

But, Portillo said it is not her job to judge what people should use and it is available for those who want it.

(She did advise that anyone taking Zoom take vitamins B and C since caffeine consumes quantities of these

Some of those who buy Zoom work long hours and feel the product will help them.

Portillo said one trucker came into her store saving that Zoom was the answer for truckers who want to stay awake but don't want to use "whites" or amphetamines

One West End resident who tried three of the tablets said he got no reaction from the product.

Ollie Brooke, owner of Ollie's Health Foods in Alta Loma, said he has sold out of the product and he doesn't intend to sell anymore until more is found out about it.

He agreed with Portillo that he doesn't recommend caffeine but it's up to people to make their own decisions

"It shouldn't be on the market," is Rita McLean's

As owner of Rita's Health Foods in Upland she said her only requests for Zoom have been from young "hippy, pot-smoking types...who are looking for a cheap high.

Once the product is established, Bernstein hopes the product will remain popular because "people will need and want what this product can offer.

Bernstein claims that one of America's largest cola drink makers is working with guarana in Brazil now to develop a drink with guarana in it.

Asked why guarana hasn't been brought into this country earlier, Bernstein replied: "I don't know, but I'm glad I was the first one to do it.'

Center forges path out of barrio, migrant jobs

By RITA BUSBY Staff Writer

Her small world consisted of an uncertain life as a migrant farm

His world centered around a packing plant and getting into trouble with law enforcement

It took courage for both to break out of a life's pattern established by generations of migrant farm workers and families entrenched in the barrio.

The only time they look back now is when extending a helping hand to a friend eager to escape the same eaten and endless paths

Frank Chagolla, 21, and Christina Villegas, 28, were subjects little more than a year ago of a ewspaper account dealing with the schooling they were receiving as welders at the Center for Employment Training (CET) in

The school was established to retrain migrant workers pushed out of the fields by the growing use of arm machinery and the replacement of crops by building developments.

Theirs are success stories.

Mrs. Villegas graduated and secured a job that more than quadrupled her former wages of about $3.25 per hour (when work was available). She was also able to help her husband, Ishmael, through the welding school.

Villegas, also a former farm worker, attended CET despite the objections of his former employers. When Mrs. Villegas left the field more than a year ago for CET, the family was threatened with eviction from the camp if her husband followed suit.

Cirtrus College will offer the college.

and also gain insight into Bldg. Room 181.

That would have left the couple and their then 2-year-old son without a place to live.

Mrs. Villegas, diminutive, brighteyed and speaking through an interpreter "because it is difficult to speak of 'feelings' in English" told of how she completed her schooling, got a good job and was able to support the family and pay rent outside the camp while her husband attended CET

After the training, he got a goodpaying job as a welder and they purchased a home in Fontana where Mrs. Villegas, now a homemaker, is expecting their second child.

'Now that he's working and we have a home, we can afford another baby," she said.

Most of Mrs. Villegas' conversation was about the house. which she considers a small miracle, since it is the first she can remember any family member

But she said other changes in her life and that of her husband are great.

"I still get up early like I always did as a farm worker," she said. "Only now I get up happy." Her face brightened as she said.

We are a family with hope. The smile left her face and she added, "There are many families in camp without hope. Chagolla has never worked in the fields. He worked in a packing plant. But he believes life there is as confining as that of the farm laborer and perhaps harder to break away from.

He said life at the packing plant is simply a continuation of life in the barrio, which ultimately led him to trouble with the police. As such, it is secure and familiar.

Los Angeles stage evening, Sept. 12, at 6:30 now at the college may be obtained by calling

When work is good at the packing plant, he said, it pays about $2.75 per hour for up to 14 hours of work per day. But it is seasonal; sometimes there is no work at all.

Unlike the bosses at some farm labor camps, the foreman at the packing plant urged Chagolla to "Find a better job. This isn't good lifetime work," he encouraged. But, Chagolla said, to many Mexican-Americans, the packing plant offers a feeling of security and people are afraid they might fail at school.

Four of Chagolla's cousins at the plant didn't have the confidence to get out, he said. 'I got the confidence from my grandfather," he said. Chagolla's grandfather, Pete

Chagolla, 78, of Riverside, left the fields two years ago, after a lifetime spent supporting a family of nine on migrant farm pay.

I have stuff I never had in my life before," Chagolla, who is also planning to marry soon, said. "I don't hang around with my old friends and I'm out of trouble with the courts.

Chagolla still lives in an Ontario barrio, which he referred to as 'ghetto," but said his new friends are from work - members of the company baseball team at Food Machinery Corp. in Pomona.

Leaving old friends and a familiar way of life aren't the only obstacles that must be overcome when changing lifestyles.

Greg Doonan, branch manager at CET, said its representatives are still greeted with hostility at the farm labor camps by "bosses" when they try to distribute circulars telling workers of the school.

Also, many male workers are resentful of the women who get good-paying jobs after CET training, according to Doonan.

Nevertheless, the school has an impressive record. In less than three years of operation, the federally funded group has graduated approximately 70 welders - all but a few are former migrant farm workers.

Of that 70, about 60 are presently working at welding jobs, earning between $5.40 to $14 per hour.

Job effectiveness class at Chaffey

Chaffey College will offer a weekend Job Effectiveness Workshop (Cooperative Education 71) at the Alta Loma campus Sept. 9 and Sept. 21. The workshop represents the first of a three-part Transitions Series for Working People. The workshops are designed for employed persons who wish to increase their work effectiveness. Included in this fall's workshop will be a videotape on "Laws and Regulations Affecting Work" featuring Brent Hogshead, supervising deputy California labor commissioner, and Carolyn Robinson, assistant area director, U.S. Department of Labor.

The workshop instructor will be Liz Stark, cooperative education coordinator of Chaffey College, and the workshop will begin Sept. 9, from 6-10 p.m., and continue on Sept. 21, 8 a.m.-4 p.m. One unit of credit may be earned for participating in the two-day session.

Students may register for the workshop during regular registration on Tuesday, Wednesday and Sept. 4 and 5, or at the first meeting of the workshop.

The Alta Loma campus is located five miles north of the San Bernardino Freeway on Haven Avenue.

System to trace illicit drug traffic urged

By ROBERT P. STUDER Copley News Service

SACRAMENTO - There may be as many as 10 million doses of illicit "uppers" and "downers" being sold on the streets of California that originated in the legitimate drug channels of the state - and they are going for as much as five times their original price.

It is this source of potential misery and physical and emotional dependency that is the target of legislation begin pushed in the Legislature by Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy.

It is, according to Gene

Hollingsworth, chief of the Bureau of Investigation and Narcotic Enforcement for the state Department of Justice, probably the only major street source for this kind of drug on the illicit market.

amounting to $6,350.

McCarthy's legislation, which has already been approved by the Assembly Health Committee, would attempt to solve what heretofore has been a virtually impossible problem to solve - keeping track of the millions of pills and capsules distributed by prescription.

Cost to the state, mostly for the necessary computer time, would be about $250,000.

Low-rent housing plan measure due on ballot

By VONNE ROBERTSON Staff Writer

The Claremont City Council has amended its resolution which places on the Nov. 6 ballot a proposition concerning low-rent housing for senior citizens and handicapped per-

The change in wording of the proposition adopted by council members last Monday would now allow the use, if necessary, of Claremont Redevelopment Agency funds in the development of the project for not more than 150 units of housing at an undetermined location in the

The earlier resolution adopted by the council stated "with state, federal or private funds.

City Manager Norman King explained the words "or with tax increment funds" were needed to be included in the proposition to legally protect the city.

'Since redevelopmnt agency funds do come from specific local sources, this must be spelled out on the ballot so the voter is aware these funds might be used, at least for seed money," King said.

"However," he added, "it clearly does not commit the council to use these funds. And if redevelopment funds were used, chances are that they would be repaid through increased revenues in the redvelopment district.'

Mayor Richard Newton opposed the placing of the proposition on the November ballot.

"While I strongly support the concept of housing for the elderly and handicapped, I think we are endangering the passing of the ballot measure by rushing," he said.

The council convened Wednesday to amend the proposition wording to meet the Friday deadline for placing items on the Nov. 6 ballot.

Save on quality beef that's USDA Choice... (not just USDA Inspected)

Everybody's beef is USDA Inspected. That only means it's safe to eat. But "choice" is a lot more than just a word. Before beef is graded USDA Choice, it has to pass finicky government grader's specifications for quality that means consistent tenderness and flavor. Don't let anybody kid you. The grape is the only fruit which comes fully equipped naturally with everything needed to make wine. There is in a grape enough sugar to produce sufficient alcohol for stability in the finished wine. There is adequate fruit acidity to make the wine fruity and exciting to the taste buds.

In addition, the waxy "bloom" on the skin of the grape traps yeast spores. Thus, all that is necessary to make wine a sound, pleasant, drinkable wine is to crush some grapes, releasing the juice and bringing which the FDA desires, but the sugar dissolved there into contact with the yeast shown precious little inspores on the grape skin, allowing the yeast to turn sumers who took the trouthe grape sugar into ethyl alcohol and carbon dioxide.

Foods are nutritious, delicious

Concern for health and 1 tablespoon oil in a large good nutrition, as well as appeal, should be a basic part of everyday meal minutes on FULL POWER planning. Here are two easy recipes that meet all three requirements.

Little or no water is used to prepare vegetables in the microwave. This results in very little loss of valuable nutrients. "Spinach-Zucchini Bake" combines fresh produce with proteinrich eggs to provide a light and satisfying dinner idea. Keep "Rice Pudding" on hand for hungry after-school snackers! They'll enjoy this delicious custard warmed in the microwave or chilled and served with light cream

Spinach-Zucchini Bake (Makes 6 servings)

2 lbs. fresh spinach, chopped OR 2 (10 oz.) packages frozen spinach 3 tablespoons oil 1 lb. zucchini, diced

1 cup cooked rice 3 garlic cloves, chopped 8 eggs, beaten

1/2 cup dry bread crumbs ½ cup Parmesan cheese Mix chopped spinach and glass bowl. Cover with plastic wrap and cook 5-6 or until just wilted. Drain. In a separate bowl, cover and cook zucchini in remaining 2 tablespoons of oil for 4-5 minutes on FULL POWER or until tender.

Add zucchini, rice and garlic to spinach; mix well. Lightly grease a 3-quart casserole and spoon in vegetable mixture. Cover with plastic wrap and cook 3-4 minutes on FULL POWER.

Pour beaten eggs evenly over vegetables. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and Parmesan Cheese. Cook, uncovered, 8-10 minutes on SIMMER/DEFROST or until eggs are set. (If your microwave does not have a carousel, rotate 1/2 turn after 4 minutes.) Remove from oven and let stand 5-10 minutes before serving.

> Rice Pudding (Makes 6-8 servings)

After-school haven needs a home

By LINDA BERGSTED Panorama Editor

An after-school haven for children of working parents was established last year in Ontario.

Latch Key of the YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley provided a home-away-from-home for children at an Ontario site from the time school let out until their parents picked them up at 5:30 p.m.

Now Latch Key has lost its home and needs a new location in Ontario. Otherwise, when school starts Sept. 10, the children in the Latch Key program will have no place to go after school.

The situation is particularly crucial when the majority of mothers are part of the labor force in this and other communities," said Gladys Naylor of the YWCA headquarters.

"The YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley is asking that someone come to their rescue with a room the size of an ordinary classroom," she said.

Key in lock

Space in a community building, a school, a church, an empty store, a heated garage would be adequate to keep Latch Key going in Ontario, she explained. A moderate donation or rent would be paid by the program.

The YWCA operates Latch Key programs in Pomona, Claremont and San Dimas as well as Ontario. Also needed by the program are parents to drive children to the sites and additional equipment: gym mats, film projectors, recycled articles for crafts, balls, rackets and bats, crayons and paints.

Persons interested in becoming drivers on the Latch Key payroll can apply at the YWCA, 1787 N. Garey Ave.,

Latch Key is not intended to be a school experience, but is designed for relaxation and to pursue children's interests when possible. It hopefully opens doors the school and home are not able to provide.

The program was so named because of the symbolic 'latch key" children wear around their necks to unlock the door of empty homes when parents are working.

Latch Key programs furnish a safe place for children after school and provide transportation to the Latch Key sites. Also included are snacks, arts and crafts, films, music, gymnastics, trips to the library, parks and other places of interest and tender loving care. Children in kindergarten through sixth grade are admitted.

When the Latch Key program started last January in Ontario, it had very limited funds. This year, a certified California teacher has been hired to head the program. She is Carol Marie Sbardellati, who has taught in state schools for the last six years.

The children deserve a quality program and the YWCA now is capable of providing it," Mrs. Naylor said. 'A moderate priced fee scale is established to give every family the opportunity for Latch Key.

Mrs. Naylor cited the efforts of U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston who introduced a bill into Congress that would establish state grants for child care services. "He observed," she said, "that 'money invested in child care pays enormous dividends in lower welfare costs, higher worker productivity and reduced crime and delinquency.

The YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley is a non-profit organization and a member agency of the West End

Anyone who can help maintain a program of this ... opens empty house? potential in our community is asked to call Mrs. Naylor at YWCA headquarters at 622-1269.

The Pomona Valley Art Association is sponsoring the library exhibit, which also includes floral paintings in oil and watercolor by association members, including Joan Beauregard of Pomona, Myers, Ann Stone of Claremont, Al Fierros of Pomona and Ova Winston of Pomona. The artists are also currently exhibiting their works at the Valley Art Gallery, 190 Pomona Mall East, Pomona.

A free demonstration of tole and decorative painting techniques will be given by Missy Walsh, Claremont adult education art teacher, at the Valley Art Gallery, 180 Pomona Mall East, on Tuesday, from 1 to 4

She also teaches basic techniques in folk art strokes and presents methods of painting on wood, metal, glass, etc., at Craft Cottage in Claremont.

Artist John Collier of San Bernardino will teach a "Do Your Own Thing" class at the Fontana Art Association gallery at 8536 Sierra Ave., Fontana, beginning Sept. 4 from 9 a.m. to noon and from 7 to 10 p.m.

A similar class will start Sept. 10 from 9 a.m. to noon and a "Paint Along" class will begin Sept. 5 from 7 to 10 p.m. and Sept. 7 from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m.

Artist Ruth Wolff, who works in oils and watercolors and follows an 'old masters' technique, will teach classes on Wednesday and Thursday from 9 a.m. to noon

Floral painting classes will be taught by Betty Usrey, a Riverside artist. Her classes begin Sept. 10 from 1 to 4 p.m.

All classes at the gallery will be limited to 16 and membership in the Fontana Art Association is required. A fee will be charged.

The art gallery, displaying oils, acrylics, watercolors, hand-painted china, pottery and porcelain collectors' items, is open Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

San Marino, 91108.

Rock Hudson stars in musical

Rock Hudson has returned to the Los Angeles stage in the hit Broadway musical "On the Twentieth Century" at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion of the Music Center. The show which won five Tony Awards last season including Best Musical Book, Score, and Scenic Design, is the last attraction of the 42nd annual Los Angeles Civic Light Opera season

Hudson appears as a producer trying to change his luck on the famed train running from Chicago to New York. Along for the ride are Imogene Coca, a wealthy woman looking to invest in a big show and Judy Kaye as a big Hollywood star who was once Hudson's protegee. Also starring is Patrick Quinn as her leading man and current romantic interest.

It all takes place on the train itself, a 1930's art deco creation designed by Robin Wagner. The show was adapted from plays by Ben Hecht, Charles MacArthur, and Bruce Millholland by Betty Comden and Adolph Green with music by Cy Coleman. The production is directed by Harold Prince, who recently directed

Tickets are available through the Music Center box office, open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday and all Mutual agencies. Tickets may also be charged by telephone by calling (213) 972-7246. Information (213) 972-

"Give your appliances the afternoon off."

Help lighten the electric load.

If you do the heavy housework in the morning, here's what you'll be doing. The baking. The dishwashing. The laundry. And the vacuuming.

But you'll be doing something else, too. Something that's very important. By giving your electric appliances the afternoon off, you'll be helping to lighten the load from noon to 6 p.m. That's when homes, stores, offices and factories turn on air conditioners to beat the afternoon heat.

Give your appliances the afternoon off. Then Edison can put off building expensive new power plants. And you'll help keep your electric bills down.

SACRAMENTO - Forced by happenstance of birth or injury to live out their lives in a world of oppressive silence, 1.5 million certified deaf persons in California have always found it difficult to be heard in Sacramento.

Unless they can go to the state Capitol accompanied by an interpreter skilled in sign language, as occasionally happens when organized groups of deaf lobby the Legislature, there is little they can do except write a letter.

To many, that has not been enough. Now, thanks to a new Teletype system instituted at the state Capitol, California's deaf can get their point of view across with the same immediacy as a telephone call, but use the written, instead of the spoken, word to do it.

It works like this:
Telephonic Teletype receivers are located in Assembly
Speaker Leo McCarthy's office in Los Angeles at 107 S. Broadway, Room 8009, and in Room 3016 of the state Capitol.

Throughout the state, 12,00 deaf persons already have installed small, portable transmitting and receiving Teletypes that may be rented from Pacific Telephone Co. for $14 per month. The number of machines in use is growing every month.

Manufa Polical Pages

The $14 is a special price available only to the certified deaf. Normally, the machines rent for $27 per month.

By utilizing such a home device, which operates by tone signals through an ordinary home telephone, the deaf person may either ring up the Southern California number, (213) 620-4737, and have the message relayed for him to the state Capitol, or ring up the Capitol number direct at (916) 323-2301.

In either case, the message will be delivered directly to the legislator addressed.

There are at least three major pieces of legislation of interest to the deaf now in the Legislature — SB 548, which would give "signal dogs," which guide the deaf, the same right of entry as Seeing Eye dogs for the blind.

All of this legislation could trigger communications to the Capitol from interested deaf citizens from throughout the state.

SACRAMENTO - They were white and black and brown, blonde, brunette and redhead, young or already past the years when a woman stops adding up the birthdays. They were slender and fat, dressed in slacks or jeans or afternoon frocks or housedresses.

And all of them were bitter and angry and afraid. "Right now," said young, blonde and slender Lynn Taylor bitterly, "my husband is at Folsom and we haven't touched one another for six months — and now they've decided that it will be another six months. "Whenever we visit, we must be separated by a thick glass screen and we can only talk to each other through a telephone so noisy that we can't hear half the time.

"But even when we did have 'contact visitations,' we were allowed only one kiss when we met and another when we said goodbye - and if we so much as touched each other at any other time during the half-hour we were allowed together, a guard would be down on us in an instant warning us to 'cool it.'

More than 100 angry wives and relatives of inmates in California's prisons had descended angrily upon this hearing of the State Department of Corrections in Sacramento.

"Now they are trying," Taylor added grimly, "to endanger even that small right. They are trying to change the fundamental right of visitation into a 'privilege' so they can use even a visit by a wife or family member as a weapon to enforce discipline.

'Yet, it is in these contacts with their families and loved ones that these men find a reason for even wanting to be rehabilitated. It is the only thing that keeps them human, to keep them from becoming animals.

The 100 women were among witnesses attending a public hearing to protest proposed changes in the state administrative code governing visitation rights.

Paul W. Comiskey, attorney for the California Prisoner's Union, explained it this way in an interview:

Under the law, prisoners in California institutions are guaranteed the right to personal visits and prison authorities only may restrict those visitations to the extent necessary to protect the security of the institution or the safety of the public.

"Now they are trying to define that as 'the right to visit one person once a week for one hour in a noncontact situation.' That means behind glass screens and conversing over a telephone. "In addition, they want to take every other part of the visitation rights and define each as a 'privilege' that can be given or taken away. "And if they (the Department of Corrections) get away with this, then we will be right back to how things were in the past when a prisoner's rights are only what the warden or prison staff says they are.

Department of Corrections spokesman Phil Guthrie, however, said that "We are seeking only to amend visitation standards at this time as minimum standards. so that California can be among the first states to meet the minimum standards for prisons as advocated by the American Correctional Association.

"At present, we foresee no changes in current visitation practices," he added, "although this situation may change in the future due to prison overcrowding and similar problems.

Have a "wig ding" of a cookout for the Labor Day weekend. It isn't too early to plan ahead and this Chicken Kabob on the Wing idea is economical and delicious. Cook chicken wings on skewers with green pepper, pineapple and sweet potato chunks to complete the delicious kabob for the end-of-the-summer celebration.

Plan for Labor Day

Use imagination for cookout

It's becoming more difficult than ever to keep tabs on the food budget and entertain, too.

But you can accomplish both with this clever idea for Chicken Kabobs on the Wing, from test kitchens in Rochester, N.Y. You'll also find this unique kabob idea to be popular for family cookouts.

Economical chicken wings are perfect for a "down home" barbecue with a contemporary twist. When interwoven with colorful pieces of green pepper, pineapple, and sweet potato chunks, chicken wings take on the fascination of geometric designs. For a bit of southern charm, this flavorful combination is enhanced with a golden tart-sweet basting sauce of pineapple juice, prepared yellow mustard, and brown sugar.

Carry out the "down home" theme with traditional corn muffins accented with a subtle hint of cheese. To prepare Jenny's Corn Muffins, simply combine a package of corn muffin mix with an envelope of cheese sauce mix and a hint of poultry seasoning. The muffins can be baked early in the day, then warmed on the back of the grill as the chicken finishes cooking.

Set pace for good nutrition

Many of us still vegetables with dairy remember those lingering products. Meatless words from Mom, "Eat Manicotti and Golden your vegetables, they're Broccoli Bake are both high good for you."

And today with more calcium, and other emphasis on good nutrition, minerals; they will also vegetables are gaining in acceptance and sharing the spotlight with other foods.

Here are two meatless main dish recipes from the test kitchens in Rochester, delightful flavors of

Eggs on the move

With food prices soaring sky - high, remember that eggs are a great way to serve your family high quality protein at appealing prices. When eggs sell for 90 cents a dozen, that's only 60 cents a pound for a protein rich food.

Scrambled eggs are not just a breakfast food they adapt well to the dinner table, too. They're fast, easy and versatile. Combine them with almost any food: cooked meat. poultry or fish, vegetables, shredded or cubed cheese. Add suitable herbs or spieces and you have a delightful main dish that pairs perfectly with a salad and maybe a loaf of fresh

Keep a few hard - cooked eggs on hand in the diced (about 2 to 3 cups) refrigerator. They're great for adding to tossed salads. cooked vegetables or casseroles, and you can't beat them as a nutritious, cheddar cheese satisfying snack. When time for cooking is Sloppy Joe seasoning mix in short supply, reach for the carton of eggs instead of a frozen pizza or TV dinner. Scramble them, fry them or whip them into an omelet. They're an easy way to serve a fast meal that's

ORDINANCE NO. 1217 AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF UPLAND ESTABLISHING PERMIT PARKING ZONES AND PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE OF PARKING PERMITS

City Council of the City of Upland does hereby ordain as follows: SECTION 1. The Upland Municipal Code shall be amended by adding a Part 10.1 to Chapter 2 of Article 3 of the Upland Municipal Code to read as 10.1 Establishment of Permit Parking Zones on Residential Streets. Section 3309.20 Designation of Permit Parking Zones.

The City Council may designate by resolution certain residential streets or portions thereof, as permit parking zones for the benefit of residents adjacent thereto in which zones vehicles displaying a permit or other authorized indicia may be exempt from parking prohibitions or restrictions otherwise posted, marked, or noticed. Each permit parking zone shall be designated only upon findings that such zone is required: (1) that such zone is necessary to provide reasonably available and convenient parking for the benefit of the adjacent residents: (2) that the proposed zone is desirable to encourage the use of car pooling: (3) to enhance or protect the quality of life in the area of the proposed zone threatened by litter, noise, traffic, hazards environmental pollution or devaluation of real property resultingfrom non-resident vehicular traffic and parking; and (4) to encourage non-t resident vehicles to park in designated off-street parking facilities

No preferential parking ordinance shall apply until signs or markings giving adequate notice thereof have been placed Section 3309.22 Criteria for Determination of Findings

(a) That non-resident vehicles, defined as those vehicles operated by persons whose destinations are to non-residential locations, do or may sub tially and regularly interfere with the use of the majority of available public street parking spaces by adjacent residents (b) That the interference by the non-resident vehicles referred to in sub section (a) occurs at regular and significant daily intervals

(c) That the non-resident vehicles being driven or parked in the area or the proposed zone cause or are the source of unreasonable litter, noise traffic hazards, environmental pollution, or devaluation of real property in the area of the proposed zone (d) That the majority of the residents adjacent to the proposed zone desire, agree, or request permit parking privileges. (e) That no unreasonable displacement of non-resident vehicles will result in surrounding residential areas:

(f) That a shortage of reasonably available and convenient residential-relating parking spaces exists in the area of the proposed zone, and (g) That no alternative solution is feasible or practical. Section 3309.24 Issuing Authority.

The City Licensing Officer shall issue permits for permit parking. (a) Applicants for such permits may be required to present such proof, as may be required by the City Licensing Officer, of residence adjacent to the area designated as permit parking zone. Not more than three (3) permits shall be issued for each qualified dwelling unit to any qualified applicant. Applicants requesting more than three (3) permits for any dwelling unit showing that there are more than three (3) vehicles registered at the address of such dwelling unit and that insufficient off-street parking is available to the applicant during the effective hours.

(b) Duration of Permits. Permits issued pursuant to this Part shall remain effective for so long as the applicant continues to reside in a 11:00 A.M. as duly appointed qualified dwelling unit for such permit, or until the permit parking zone for which such permit was issued is eliminated, whichever period of time is

> (c) Conditions of Permits. Each permit issued pursuant to this Part shall be subject to all the conditions and restrictions set forth in this Part and of the permit parking zone for which it was issued, including conditions or restrictions which may be altered or amended from time to time. > No permit shall be required for any vehicle used while making pick-ups r deliveries of goods, wares or merchandise to any building or structure located adjacent to the permit parking zone or while necessarily in use in the construction, installation or repair of any improvement on the premises of any residence adjacent to said permit parking zone Section 3309.26 Violations.

> (a) No vehicle shall be parked or stopped adjacent to any curb in a permit parking zone in violation of any posted or noticed prohibitions restrictions posted or noticed under the provisions of this Part 10.1, unless such vehicle shall have prominently displayed on a designated location upon such vehcile, a permit indicating an exemption from such restriction

> (b) It shall be unlawful for any person to allow the use of, transfer, sell, rent or lease, or cause to be used, transferred, sold, rented, or leased for or without any value or consideration any permit parking permit. Upon the conviction of a violation of this subsection, all permit parking permits; ed to or for the benefit of the dwelling unit for which the used, transferred, sold, rented, or leased permit was authorized shall be void. (c) It shall be unlawful for any person to borrow, buy or otherwise acquire for value or use any permit parking permit, except as provided for in

> Section 3309.28 — Penalty Any person violating any of the provisions of this Part 10.1 shall be deemed to be guilty of an infraction, and upon conviction thereof under the provisions of this Part shall be punishable by (1) a fine of not more than Fifty Dollars ($50.00) for the first violation; (2) a fine of not more than Ones Hundred Dollars ($100.00) for a second violation of the same Part within one (1) year; and (3) a fine not exceeding Two Hundred Fifty Dollars ($250.00) for each additional violation of the same Part within one (1) year.

> continued, or permitted by such person, and shall be punishable accor SECTION 2. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this Ordinance is for any reason held to be invalid, such holding or holdings shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of the Ordinance. The City Council hereby declares that it would have passed this Ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase thereof irrespective of the fact that any one or more section, subsection, sentence, clause or

SECTION 3. This Ordinance is an urgency ordinance and is for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and welfare. The City Council has found that in the immediate vicinity of the Upland High School numerous high school students are parking their cars on the residential streets and creating nuisances which are intolerable to the neighborhood and which are threatening to the residents in that neighborhood. For the purpose of having the ordinance effective prior to the beginning of the school year for the Upland High School, it is entirely necessary that this ordinance be enacted as an urgency measure and that it would be detrimental and injurious to the property and persons of the residents immediately adjacent to the high school if this ordinance were not put into effect on an

Not exactly skating to organ music, Marty Carter, 21, Chino, works out at an Upland skateboard park to keep in shape for the many roller skating competitions he enters

- and wins. He is considered one of the country's top amature pool-riding roller

From streets to rinks, wheels roll in success

Moving like an army on wheels from beaches to the sidewalks of the West End, Southern Californians are rolling in one of the biggest booms since the hula hoop.

Roller skating enthusiasts have helped create a 400 percent increase in patronage at some local roller skating rinks. Private disco roller skating bars have arrived and skateboard parks are adding outdoor

Wheels are the latest craze in sports and recreation. Since roller skating popularity began several months ago, city councils have been embroiled in disputes with sidewalk skating enthusiasts. And the sport has spawned a booming equipment

Some say skating is only a passing fad, but others are preparing for a new and permanent sport.

"It's obvious to anyone that roller skating is taking over," said Dan Hoffman, owner of the Pipeline Skate Park in Upland. Skaters there share the bowls (areas designed like large swimming pools) with skateboarders.

Hoffman said the roller skating craze, which first became popular along California beaches, hit the West End about April.

"It has now grown until it's out of hand," he added, predicting the sport will become even more popular in the inland areas because of warmer weather.

And because of the anticipated growth, the Upland park already has plans to build an outdoor rink.

Hoffman said the beauty of roller skating is that it's available to all ages, creating a much larger market than what has been available to the skateboard industry

He warns, however, that only professional roller skaters should use skateboard bowls.

The development of urethane rollers on skateboards opened up outdoor roller skating because the wheels work well on any surface and are safer than the old metal wheels once used on outdoor skates.

Although outdoor roller rinks are patterened after the more familiar indoor ones, they offer the skating enthusiast the pleasure of outdoor entertainment. They are especially popular in Southern California's warm climate.

Roller skating

Roller skating promoters, meanwhile, are hoping the public will react to the new sport with "sanity" that was lacking in the earlier stages of the skateboarding fad.

Because of roller skating's adaptability to families; Hoffman said it is hoped the sport will be promoted "the establishment," even though it originally became disenchanted with skateboards.

Meanwhile, the fashion industry and the media has come to roller skating's aid, hyping the sport with specially designed clothes and sto-

The addition of disco music at indoor roller rinks has created an even newer fad. Extremes in disco skating have reached the adult market with rinks like Flipper's in Los Angeles, a private roller skating dis-

Disco even permeates the equipment market with lines of specially designed disco-style skates. Other equipment for roller skaters include skates mounted on either boots or tennis shoes, knee and elbow pads and helmets. Hoffman said knee pads are a must. The four basic types of roller skating are disco, marathon and slalom, sidewalk and dance and figure. The latter type has been taught at roller skating rinks for years.

Terry Martin, 32, of Rancho Cucamonga, is involved in almost all aspects of the sport. A recent winner in the 10-kilometer skate at Griffith Park, he began with skateboards and switched to roller skates about a

Martin and his wife, Lorrie, 29. are competitive water skiers and both also like running. He considers skating an extension of his sports ac-

Recently, Martin's mother, 55year-old Doris Beckner, also of Rancho Cucamonga, finished a 6-mile skate in San Diego and competed in a 10-kilometer race at Griffith Park.

Mrs. Becker, who suffered from high blood pressure, felt she was a little too old to start jogging. But she loves roller skating and her blood pressure has dropped since she took up the sport.

A manager of an Upland sporting goods store says entire families are buying skates, "just like they used to buy bicycles." Demand for outdoor skates, he says, is booming. However, some skating enthusiasts are already predicting the demise of outdoor skating and claim indoor skating will ultimately take

"It's booming. It's going like crazy," said Joe Degado, assistant manager of the Holiday Roller Rink in Montclair.

Degado says indoor skating has been increasing for three years. mostly due to media promotion by various rinks.

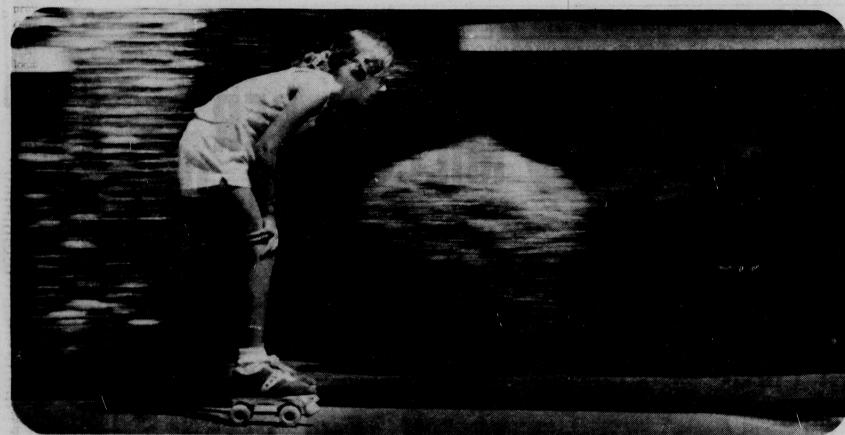

Degado doesn't attribute the increase in indoor skating to spinoffs of the outdoor roller skating craze. or even to disco, as some do. He attributes most of the increase to the gas crisis and families finding entertainment closer to home.

Degado said California skaters seem to prefer rock and roll to disco and that 1950s music is pulling in the older crowd on nights when it's of-

But whatever the reason, roller skating, whether indoor or out, appears to be here to stay for awhile. As one enthusiast said, "It's nonpolluting, healthy fun.'

A gently-sloping sidewalk in front of her home in Upland provides Chantel Vickers, 10, with hours of roller skating pleasure. The popularity of roller skating has helped increase business at one West End rink by about 400 percent in the past few months.

Mother and son, Terry Martin, 32 and Doris Beckner, 55, both of Rancho Cucamonga, are self-described roller skating enthusiasts. Martin, a competitive skater, influenced his moher to take up the sport for fun and exercise. Mrs. Beckner likes it better than jogging.

Wide choice for skate buyers

Skates are fashioned in lisco, tennis shoe and boot style and range from about $30 to $150.

Those in the skating business say anything new selling for less than $50 isn't a bargain at all.

Skate components (separate upper portions, wheels and mounts) are available and help cut costs. Used upper portions can be found sometimes, often at skating

Also, if components are purchased, wheels and mounts can be changed to larger size upper portions as a child's foot grows

Shopping tips include: -- The wheels should be tested

NURSING

WHAT'S NEW AT I.C.H.

Have you considered returning to work - but not full time? We offer RN'S the opportunity to work flexible hours and days in our Per Diem float pool. You may choose to work a few hours a shift, or a few shifts a week - all at premium pay!

Out of nursing awhile? Our "Buddy Program" will provide you with the support and encouragement you need to return to your profession. If you can give 2 or 3 shifts a week to refreshing your skills, we will provide a 'Role Model" RN to help you until you feel ready to join the staff.

Please call for additional information regarding our salaries, exceptional benefits package and list of available openings.
